

Graphical abstract: ZEB1 transcription factor promotes immune escape in melanoma

Maud Plaschka, Valentin Benboubker, Maxime Grimont, Justine Berthet, Laurie Tonon, Jonathan Lopez, Myrtille Le-Bouar, Brigitte Balme, Garance Tondeur, Arnaud de la Fouchardière, Lionel Larue, Alain Puisieux, Yenkel Grinberg-Bleyer, Nathalie Bendriss-Vermare, Bertrand Dubois, Christophe Caux, Stéphane Dalle, Julie Caramel.

- High ZEB1 expression in melanoma cells is associated with a decrease in CD8+ T lymphocyte infiltration, mediated by the repression of the production of T cell attracting chemokines.

- Zeb1 knock-out in melanoma cells improves the response to anti-PD-1 immunotherapy.

This figure has been created using Servier Medical Art by Servier, licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 3.0 Unported License.